

Asha Vitatoe

Asha Vitatoe is an Oakland native. She completed her B.A. in African American Studies at Emory University and has worked for non-profit organizations serving youth and young adults from underserved communities and communities of color in Atlanta and Oakland for the past 13 years.

Asha is currently the director of Mentoring in Medicine & Science, a health pipeline program based in Oakland with a mission to diversify the health workforce and improve health outcomes for underserved communities.

Asha enjoys spending time with her two young sons who keep her very,very busy but very happy.