

Aimee Jimenez

Aimee Jimenez is currently a Health Educator at TCC Family Health where she leads food security efforts for TCC's multiple community clinic sites throughout Long Beach. Prior to going into the field of public health, Aimee graduated with a bachelor's degree in Psychology from the University of California, Santa Barbara.

Aimee's passion for health equity and helping the medically underserved came from her service as an AmeriCorps Health Fellow through the Community Clinic Association of LA County where she was able to look at health access through a new lens.

During her free time, she enjoys taking on challenging hikes that lead to incredible views
