CHLOE PHAN

Chloe Phan is currently the Regional Coding Review Manager at Kaiser Permanente. She has twelve years of experience working as a health information professional in revenue cycle management, clinical data integrity, information governance, and auditing. Growing up in a Vietnamese-Cantonese refugee family in San Diego, she learned firsthand the disparities in access to quality and affordable healthcare services. Chloe's interest in public health spurred during the time she worked at San Ysidro Health Center. She joined her colleagues in various public health events to raise awareness for their HIV/AIDS program that served patients in both San Diego and Tijuana, mobile health clinic program for the underserved communities and Christmas events for the pediatric patients. Chloe hopes to further explore her interests in research and health policies to improve health outcomes for disadvantaged populations. She graduated with a B.S. in Health Information Management from Shasta College. In her spare time, she enjoys visiting museums, painting and exploring new places with family and friends.
