

Esmeralda (Esme) Limeta

Esmeralda (Esme) Limeta was born and raised in Los Angeles, California, and graduated from Beloit College with a BA in Public Health. She is currently working at the UCLA Labor Occupational Safety and Health Program (LOSH) where she supports outreach initiatives and develops bilingual training and educational materials to promote health and safety in the workplace. Before joining LOSH, Esme worked as a Health Organizer, connecting domestic workers and day laborers to MHLA, Medi-Cal, housing, and transportation resources. She has over five years of work experience in health education and has extensive experience working with clinics, non-profits, unions, worker centers, and community-based organizations. Esme is eager to continue to support workers in their fight for better working conditions. In her free time, she enjoys spending time with her family and friends, traveling, going to concerts, going to the movies, and exploring new restaurants.
