

Lianne Wong

Lianne was born in Calgary, Canada, and raised in the small town of East Lyme, CT. After completing her B.A. degree in English Literature from the University of British Columbia in Vancouver, she earned her Certificate in Editing from Simon Fraser University. She then developed her career in various industries such as education, consulting, and hospitality.

In September 2018, she moved to Los Angeles to change careers. She began blog writing and then discovered her true calling—health writing and health communication. With a Master's in Public Health, her goal is to improve health literacy and make healthcare more accessible and equitable for disadvantaged communities. Today, she manages the office of a multi-doctor psychiatry clinic and freelances as a content writer.

In her free time, she enjoys going outside for hikes, attending concerts, and trying out new restaurants in L.A.